FARMERS' DAY BIG SUCCESS

SAFE ESTIMATE OF CROWD WOULD BE IN EXCESS OF 5000.

The Parade Pleased Everybody-- Plans on Foot for Farmers' Day 1915.

Farmers' Day 1914 was an unprecedented success in the number of people attending. The day was perfect and the citizens of the town and from the country simply poured into the town. There was no way to arrive at an appropriate guess and hence the estimates differ, but none under five thousand have been heard and they have run as high as ten thousand. The stores were jammed with people sight seeing and buying and not a few merchants have said that the cash receipts were the best ever had on a single day sale, and all our business men speak enthusiastically of Farmers' Day.

The parade in the afternoon was the one outdoor feature of the event and attracted great attention from the crowds and was good from start to finish. William McG. Tawney as Grand Marshal had entire charge of the parade and it was pulled off successfully. He headed the procession with his aides, Morris Stansbury, Lawrence Oylor, Joseph Smith and Simon Redding.

The first division was made up of nineteen single driving teams. Hugh Scott being marshal of this division with John Wible and Allan Redding as aides. The first of these teams was decorated with "Votes for Women" banners and occupied by two young women of the country.

The judges of the features of the parade for which prizes were offered were Dr. W. E. Wolf of Ardentsville, Harry Riddlemoser of McKinstown, and Charles Rudisill of Gettysburg. They picked as the winner of the first prize of $10, Luther Slenz, and the second of $5, H. Starnier.

The second division of spans of driving horses was marshalled by Don Neely of Fairfield and had four entries and the first prize of $10 was awarded to George Bender of Straban, and second of $5 to George Motter of Mt. Joy.

The third division of four-horse teams of draft horses had George P. Taylor for marshal and the prize of $15 was awarded to J. B. Zimmerman. The fourth part of the parade was for the best pair of mules, with J. D. Hoffman of Ardentsville as marshal and the prize of $10 was awarded to Simon Riley.

The prize of $5 for the best single pony team was given to C. Musselman. There were no entries for the prizes offered for the best pair of draught horses, best four-mule team and the best float exhibiting farm produce of fruits or both.

A number of other sides helped in marshalling the parade, Dennis Asper of Aspers, James Marshall of Fairfield, Harry Bucher of Biglerville, Frank Weaver of Huntersdown, J. By-on Horner of Knoxlyn, with other assistants that these aides invited to help them.

A number of teams of our business houses were in the parade. The Gettysburg Ice and Storage Company had all their teams in line, also the Atlantic Refining Company.

The concluding division of the parade containing the floats proved the greatest attractive feature of the parade.

The Biglerville Poultry Show had a float that caught and was applauded all along the line. A big chicken coop on wheels, which held a gigantic cooer and hen and they were make-believe live ones, and kept moving about to the amusement of throngs and saying in their every action don't forget to come to their Poultry Show a December.

There was a Mutt and Jeff automobile which got the laugh all along the line.

The pony cart of Allan B. Plank, in which were seated his little son and daughter dressed as two old farmers, carrying a load of country vegetables to market greatly pleased the crowds.

The W. C. T. U. float was a very attractive one, the children were crowded around a white May pole and the car was decorated with banners proclaiming their motto: "The Saloons Must Go" and the children in the town sang their songs.

The Camp Fire Girls' float was a most attractive one, an Indian camp, and the girls in Indian costume and the float elaborately decorated with the bright colored autumn foliage.

A 1913 "Henry" at 99 cents was an original creation.

The parade concluded with the beautiful and elaborately decorated Suffrage float, a great yellow float (alliance for "Votes for Women in 1915," and drawn by four stalwart horses with right yellow trappings. The float was arranged to represent the States where the women vote, Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wyoming, and Alaska being represented by Mrs. Paul Martin, Mrs. J. D. Keith, Mrs. J. D. Swope, Mrs. D. J. Forney, Mrs. George Cobean, Miss Amy Swope, Miss Marion Sheely, Miss Frances Trichter, Miss Louise Duncan, of Triche, Miss Sarah Loit of Highland, and Miss Alice Sheely of Cashtown, they wore shields with names of the states on them and all had a headpiece, stars of liberty, and followed Columbia impersonated by Miss Martha Loit. Last on the float was Pennsylvania, represented by Mrs. Lona Riggs without the star of liberty and her sisters, and holding aloft the banner of "Votes for Women in 1915."

The judges of the exhibits were as follows: Farm Produce—Amos Sheely, Cash-town; Allen Deardorff, Cashtown, and Armour Weikert, Fairfield. The Baby Show at Bushman's Tailor Shop was one of the features that delighted everybody, for everybody loves a baby. About a hundred babies were assembled in the yard at the rear of the shop and the judges had a difficulty all their own. The judges were Miss Morrell of Biglerville; Mrs. D. W. Woods of Fairfield, and Mrs. E. C. Tyson of Flora Dale, and the award of the sewing table prize offered by the Reaser and Gettysburg Furniture Companies, went to Roland Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Martin, of this place.

FARMERS' DAY 1915. The event was such an unqualified success that it was decided that the very best thing to do would be to prepare for a Farmers' Day in 1915, and on Wednesday evening the business men met in Library Room, Court House, and heard a report from M. K. Eckert, chairman of "Farmers' Day 1914. Arrangements for the collection of the cash subscriptions were completed and payment of cash premiums will be made on Saturday, Oct. 24, by George E. Spangler, treasurer of the Farmers' Day Association.

The Association passed a vote of thanks to all who had helped and directed the secretary to extend the thanks of the Association to D. M. Minnick and Wm. McG. Tawney for their helpful and efficient services. J. Frank Hartman, C. B. Dougherty, George E. Spangler and C. B. Kitzmiller were named as a committee to secure permanent officers for Farmers' Day 1915, and there is no question that a better and bigger day will be planned, one with amusement features, etc.

President W. A. Granville made an address on the present status of Gettysburg College, paying glowing tributes to Dr. H. W. McKnight and Prof. J. A. Himes.

Rev. J. B. Baker Tuesday evening addressed Synod on Orphan Work. On Wednesday Treasurer Bell reported the total sum raised by all of the Lutheran churches of the Synod at $45,264.71, an increase over previous year of $3,537.71. Other reports were received of the work of the Church.

The delegates elected to the General Synod were Rev. J. J. Hill of Littlestown, Rev. Geo. W. Nicely of Hanover, Rev. Geo. N. Laufer of Newville, Rev. A. Stewart Hartman, D.D., of Baltimore, and Rev. D. T. Koser of Arendtsville, and five more to be chosen lay delegates. George E. Neff of York, A. R. Nissler of Hanover, Dr. W. A. Granville of Gettysburg, P. A. Elssner of York, W. L. Gladfeiter of Spring Grove, C. H. Kutz of Carlisle, and C. S. Reaser of Gettysburg, and 3 more to be chosen.

U. B. Conference.

The Pennsylvania Conference of the United Brethren Church was in session at Mechanicsburg last week.

According to the pastors' reports, every charge throughout the conference has paid the assessments for the general work of the Church in full. There was a net gain in membership of 1280, making a total membership of the churches of the conference of 21,019.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Washinger of Chambersburg, was re-elected district superintendent by 106 votes out of 123.

Baltimore was selected as the place for the holding of the next conference.

The enthusiasm of the conference was at its highest pitch when Rev. J. Lower Grimm, D.D., of Waynesboro, gave his report on Temperance, which was a strong expression of the attitude of the conference and the Church toward the solution of the temperance question through politics. He said, "No man in politics, no matter what his personal record may be, is in position to discharge his duties if supported by and receiving orders from the liquor traffic." He offered the resolution, that we place ourselves to vote for no one who will not place his conscience to the liquor traffic.

Whether or not the proprietor may arbitrarily discontinue railroad service is the latest question to be put up to the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, the matter having been raised last Saturday in a petition filed with the Commission by John Fox Weiss of Harrisburg, that William G. Leas be compelled to show cause why he does not operate the East Berlin railroad in Adams county. Weiss represents Daniel E. Brandt and other residents of East Berlin.

One of the late rumors is that the East Berlin railway Company is bidding to carry the U. S. mail to and out of East Berlin.

Fire Rules for Schools.

The State fire marshal has sent the following fire rules to the schools for observance:

Fire drills must be held at least twice each month.

The district superintendent of schools shall instruct the principals and teachers as to their duties and arrange the time for the holding of the drills.

Bell signals for fire shall be used exclusively.

The bell signal for fire drills shall be one long one followed by four short rings, and the code for fire drills must be posted in each class room.

At the sound of the fire signal all work must cease instantly. Pupils will rise and march as directed, the boys leading. Teachers should follow so as to be sure that no child is left behind. Sometimes a teacher or an older child might lead, but if the teacher gets too far from the end of the line he or she might not be able to get back to take care of the possible excited straggler.

Boys should lead and girls follow, or if possible separate exits should be taken. Boys often trample girls in a rush.

Don't suffer longer with RHEUMATISM

No matter how chronic or how helpless you think your case may be, you can get quick and permanent relief by taking nature's remedy, "SEVEN BARKS." Get at the root of the disease, and drive the uric acid and all other poisons out of your system for good. "SEVEN BARKS" has been doing this successfully for the past 43 years. Price 50 cents per bottle at all druggists or from the proprietor, LYMAN BROWN, 68 Murray St., New York, N. Y.

FOR SALE.—Large successful and well patronized creamery and branch in central Pennsylvania. Address X. Y. Z., Deodote, Pa.

Children should be taught in the drills to overcome obstructions, to be prepared to meet them at the time of actual fire.

The movement of children shall be by the shortest route and there shall be no crossing of lines.

Classes near stairways shall precede those further away, lower floor classes shall precede upper floor classes.

Pupils shall move in sets of two, three or four, as most convenient and must be taught to absolutely obey orders as to formation and march.

All movements of classes be by marching, not by running, and teachers must not urge or hurry their pupils.

All dismissals of school should be conducted practically in every respect as a fire drill.

Littlestown Silk Mill.

The "Curroll Record" in its last issue tells of an interesting visit of a party from Taneytown to the Littlestown Silk Mill. They were shown through the establishment by the superintendent, Mr. Thomas, who explained the various processes of manufacture, beginning with the silk in bolts as received from Japan in its raw state. The Littlestown mill has been a very successful enterprise, financially, all of its bonds issued locally having been retired in full, and all interest payments met during the first ten years of operation.

To the inexpert visitor the plant seems to be a model one, fully equipped with fine machinery, and a very busy hive of industry, with a payroll of about $1200 a week on the average, and giving employment to considerably over 100 persons. The plant is operated day and night, and furnishes its own electric light.

NOTICE

The first and final account of P. C. Smith, assignee in trust for the benefit of the creditors of Walter J. Kunkel and Florence P. Kunkel, of East Berlin, Pa., has been filed in the Court of Common Pleas of Adams County, and will be confirmed on the 9th day of NOVEMBER, at 10.30 a. m., unless cause be shown to the contrary.

Does it Hurt Your Medicine.

When a man is in pain, he often finds that the only relief is to take a dose of every kind of medicine he can get, and the two sides of the East Berlin railway, and to make the people feel his must be shut down the road. Now Wm. G. Leas is asked to take a dose of his own medicine, that he must operate his road whether he wants to or not.

Whether or not the proprietor may arbitrarily discontinue railroad service is the latest question to be put up to the Pennsylvania Public Service

NEW DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY

Our representatives wear this badge.

The publishers of the old reliable FARM JOURNAL of Philadelphia, are preparing to publish the Illustrated DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY, giving the name, post-office, rural route, and telephone connection of every farmer, business man, and household in the county, all arranged alphabetically, and a classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY, including all business houses in the county, arranged under the proper headings.

With the Directory is given a complete ROAD MAP of the county, with every road NUMBERED to show the exact location of each farm, as given in the Directory.

This Directory will contain many interesting PICTURES of well-known farmers and business men of the county, fine farms, thoroughbred stock, churches and public institutions, schools and pupils, etc.

The names and necessary information are being secured by PERSONAL CANVASS of all houses and business places, and of the 3752 farms in the county. This Directory and Road Map are so useful and interesting that from our experience in other counties we can guarantee that the Directory will go into at least TWO THOUSAND HOMES OF ADAMS COUNTY, where it will be constantly used by farmers and business men for the next five years.

The Farm Journal Directories are an immense improvement over directories, containing what most publications do not give. Beside all the usual information, they give the names, addresses, telephone connection, and other important information about FARMERS, secured by PERSONAL CANVASS from each farmer himself. This canvass of country districts is so costly that most directory publishers cannot afford to make it, and ordinary lists of farmers published are in nearly all cases merely copied from official lists.

The classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY includes every business house in the county, whether in city or country. In other directories the names of houses in cities and large towns only are given.

These features with the ROAD Map, makes the Farm Journal Directory an indispensable hand-book for every live farmer and business man in the county.

If you are not sure that correct information about your farm or business has been given to one of our canvassers, please send it direct to our main office.

PALMER AND MCCORMICK

WHAT WM. J. BRYAN HAS TO SAY ABOUT PA. CANDIDATES.

Vote for Palmer for United States Senator and McCormick for Governor.

No State in the country is in greater need of the application of progressive democracy to its governmental affairs than the State of Pennsylvania, and nowhere is a more earnest and vigorous battle being waged for the success of progressive democracy.

It is many a day since the democratic party in Pennsylvania has undertaken a contest with such spirit and optimism as marks the present fight. The battle has been on for a year. The campaign of education has been waged in every way possible, and a vigorous primary campaign, ending on May 19th with the nomination of Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, for United States Senator, and Vance C. McCormick, for Governor, both progressive Democrats of the highest type, has served to arouse the party as it has not been stirred in a generation.

The Democratic party in Pennsylvania is fortunate both in its own candidates and those of its opponents. Congressman Palmer, who seeks election to the senate, is one of the brilliant young progressive Democrats who have come to the front in the party's ranks during the last few years. For three terms he has been a member of the house from the 26th District of Pennsylvania, and his record is clean from beginning to end. He has made his way by force of his own ability, integrity and courage, and in spite of the unceasing bitter opposition of the people's enemies in his own district and State as well as outside. He has been marked for defeat by the great steel interests centered in his district very time he presented himself as a candidate, but he has won brilliantly each time, because of his unswerving loyalty to the interests of his constituents, among whom are numbered thousands of the workmen in the steel plants.

The machine leaders of his own and of the Republican party have also opposed him at every step. In Washington, he early rose to prominence as an orator in the house, and the promise shown by his first speeches on the tariff and other public questions was later fulfilled in the very important tasks assigned him by the Democratic leaders. He is now chairman of the house Democratic caucus, a position second only to the minority leadership, and where he has done splendid service for the administration throughout his term.

He rose to national prominence at the Baltimore convention in 1912, where, as the head and leader of the Pennsylvania delegation, he became the leader of the Wilson forces on the floor of the convention, and was an active and effective factor in placing the stamp of progressivism upon that convention. His latest service and one of his greatest is the authorship of the national child labor bill, now nearing passage in the house. It has the endorsement of every agency of social reform in the country.

A man of splendid presence, a fine speaker, an honest and able statesman, Congressman Palmer is one of those upon whom progressive democracy in the country relies, and his progressive victory in Pennsylvania will bring joy to thousands upon thousands of progressive men of all parties throughout the country.

Vance C. McCormick, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, has a splendid record of constructive public service, which has made so convincing an appeal to the voters of the State, that the progressive party candidate for Governor has withdrawn from the ticket to make way for Mr. McCormick, who is now the candidate of both the Democratic and Washington parties.

Mr. McCormick, who is known by college men throughout the country as a star athlete at Yale and as one of the most conspicuous alumni of that institution, has carried the same characteristics of bulldog determination and fighting honesty and independence into his public service that he exemplified on the gridiron. Following his college course, he immediately took his place as one of the most progressive and capable business men of his own community. Heir to many large interests, he threw himself into the development of the agricultural and commercial interests of central Pennsylvania, and has done perhaps more than any single man for the encouragement of scientific and intensive farming, for the improvement of farm stock and farm methods and of farm life.

In politics he has been a constant factor for good, his course having been marked by independence and clean partisanship. He is the publisher of the "Harrisburg Patriot" and he has used its columns to advance every worthy cause. His influence in the Democratic party is responsible, along with that of Congressman Palmer and other associates, for the reorganization of the party, which rid it of evil influences and placed it in the hands of progressive, high-minded men. His domination in the May primaries followed a contest whose result vindicated his course, and he is to-day the candidate of the united forces of good government and clean citizenship in the Keystone State.

The issue between the Democracy and Peorose Republicanism is so clear in this fight, that there can be little doubt on which side the good citizens of Pennsylvania will take their stand. A victory for Palmer and McCormick is of vital importance to the people of Pennsylvania. Every Democrat and independent progressive voter should take their place shoulder to shoulder with Palmer and McCormick, and put Pennsylvania in line on November 3 with the Wilson Democracy and honest government.

Stand By the President

BY WM. J. BRYAN

At the coming election one-third of the senate will be chosen, and the pe-litical complexion of the third thus chosen will determine whether the senate will be friendly or unfriendly to the president.

An entire house of representatives will be chosen, and the political complexion of that body will determine whether the president is to be permitted to carry out his program of reform or have his hands tied by a hostile majority. It is a critical moment; the crisis is here.

In 1912 the voters selected Woodrow Wilson president, and gave him a democratic senate and house to second his efforts. He immediately called congress together and has kept these two bodies in continuous session ever since, laying before them from time to time recommendations carrying out the promises made during the campaign. The record which he has made is without parallel in the political annals of our country. At no former period have so many problems of such size and of so varied a character confronted a president during two years. He has met each one without hesitation, and solved them successfully by the simple process of applying democratic principles to them.

His success has been phenomenal and the approval which he has won is well nigh universal. His time has been divided between gigantic domestic questions, and titanic international difficulties—and he has proven equal to every emergency.

The cabinet which he summoned to his council table has been more than successful in meeting public expectations, while the senate and house have won the confidence and praise of the democratic party, and of a large percentage of the members of other parties.

Surely the president will not be asked to pause in his labors; surely the country will not be guilty of the dangerous experiment of changing the leadership of the senate and the house. To what opposition would the nation entrust the government? To the Roosevelt wing of the party? That wing included more than half of the voting republicans at the last election, but every election since has shown a loss in numbers and disintegration in organization. Ex-President Roosevelt realizes this as well as anyone, and is centering his efforts upon a few of his particular friends whom he is trying to save from defeat. There is no possibility of the progressives securing control of either the senate or the house. To what opposition, then, will the country turn? To the stand-pat republicans? What have they done to earn a return to power? They have, to be sure, drawn back some of those republicans who called themselves progressive; but has the leopard changed its spots? Has the republican party reformed? Has stand-patism become less odious to the American people? If reactionary republicanism was a stench in the nostrils of the people in 1912, is the odor less offensive now when the whole country is keeping step with Wilson?

The president has not only been able to summon the democrats of the senate and house to the support of the measures recommended by him, but in nearly every case he has had the pleasure of seeing republicans vote with the democrats. So habitual has become the tendency of some of the republicans (not always the same ones) to join in the support of democratic bills that one of the democrats has wittily suggested that "The republicans ought either to quit criticizing the democrats or else quit voting for democratic measures."

It is only a few weeks more until election; let every friend of the administration busy himself with campaign work from now until the polls are closed. He should be sure to vote himself, and to keep the matter before his neighbors. It is easier to bring a democratic voter to the polls than it is to convert a republican—therefore, get the vote out.

But this is not enough—the victory this fall ought to be overwhelming. Let every democrat pledge himself to bring at least one republican to the support of the administration candidates. It is not likely that the majority in the senate or house will turn on one vote, but it may. Take no chances. A democrat would never forgive himself if as a result of his negligence the majority in either senate or house should be lost.

The people have been relieved of the burdens of a high tariff; they have seen a part of the load lifted from the backs of the masses and placed upon large incomes; they have witnessed a change in the currency laws which makes Washington and not Wall Street the financial center of the country; they have seen trust legislation enacted; they have seen the Filipinos promised independence, the promise to be fulfilled as soon as a stable government has been established; they have reason to be proud of the manner in which the honor of the country has been upheld; they have rejoiced that the country was kept from war with Mexico and put in position to assist in restoring peace in Europe; they have seen the government of the United States become the diplomatic clearing-house of the world, potentia in every capital.

Let the approval be so emphatic that the president may not only have an increased support, but he given additional inspiration to continue the splendid program of reform which he has outlined.

Posture.

"As the twig is bent, the tree's inclined." Few people appreciate the value of correct posture. Not alone does it have a decided effect upon our bodily health but an equal if not a greater bearing upon our mental attitude. When a man is down and out we plead with him to "brace up." It is almost impossible to associate incompetency and weakness with a firm upright carriage. Resolution seems to be the natural accompaniment of an erect well poised physique. Not alone for its effect upon ourselves but for the impression which it makes upon our fellows we should endeavor to cultivate an upright bearing.

If you slouch at your work you really incapacitate yourself. A proper position sitting as well as standing or walking is required to insure the maximum use of body and brain. A depressed head and shoulders means a contraction of the chest and a corresponding inability to expand the lungs to their full extent. Any lessening of our maximum breathing capacity is harmful.

This position if persisted in may be particularly important for growing children, especially for those of school age to acquire a proper posture.

Considerable attention has been given to the seating of pupils but until every backless bench has been removed from our school rooms and every child is given a properly designed seat which will permit the feet to rest on the floor and a desk of proper height, we will not have begun to do the necessary work in this direction.

The acquirement of a graceful upright carriage by both boys and girls is an acquisition whose value both in the social and business world can scarcely be over-estimated. The man or woman who has fallen into careless habits in this respect will find their efforts to correct them well repaid.

No violent gymnastics are necessary. A few simple exercises and a little determination can accomplish much toward making proper posture, a permanent good habit which will benefit us physically and mentally.

Long Honeymoon.

Marriage among Moslems in India is followed by other ceremonies. The bride, with the bridegroom, is taken back to her father's house after four days; then again she comes back to her husband's house after ten days' stay and then after a stay of twenty days returns to her father's house for at least six months. Thus instead of having a short period of honeymoon they make it last almost a year.

Why Roquefort is Strong.

Roquefort cheese gets its sharp flavor from caprylic, caprylic and capric acids and their salts, which are formed by a sort of hydrolysis of the fat during the ripening period. This change is caused by a microbe called Penicillium roqueforti. These acids have a peppery taste.

Draining Doughnuts.

A pair of long wooden knitting needles are most excellent for draining doughnuts. As the doughnuts are fried slip them on a needle, and when it is full rest it on the top of a pan to cool. The doughnuts do not crush, and the lard drains off.

Melting the Heart of Anger.

Is thy friend angry with thee? Then provide him an opportunity of showing thee a great favor. Over that his heart must needs melt, and he will love thee again.—Richter.

Glazed Tiles.

The making of glazed tiles or "azulejos" is the only ancient Valencian industry which has retained its importance through centuries up to the present day.

SEVEN BARKS

Stand by President Wilson

It's mighty good to be an American citizen these days.

With nearly all of Europe engaged in a bloody, disastrous war, with hundreds of thousands of men being killed, women widowed, children made orphans, countries devastated, it is brought home to us very forcibly that President Wilson in his wonderful and successful efforts in averting War with Mexico, stands as the great preserver of peace which means that you as a citizen of the United States have been kept clear of undergoing all the horrors that are now rampant in Europe.

The President stands out among all the men of the world, but in what he did in your interests he needed the assistance of Congress which he had, and Congressman Brodbeck stood by the President at all times and for all the things for which he stood.

Mr. Brodbeck is now a candidate for re-election; a vote for him and your support will indicate to President Wilson when the results of the election have been made known whether you approve of what he has done in keeping this Country at peace or whether you do not.

This is an important matter, the question is, do you believe in President Wilson and those who stood by him, or do you not? It is believed that you do, and for that reason you should not only vote for Mr. Brodbeck, but you should urge your friends to do likewise.

Talk this matter over with your friends, get them thoroughly acquainted with just what the real conditions are; that Mr. Brodbeck has not only stood by the President, but that he has made every endeavor to faithfully and conscientiously represent the interests of this District in Congress; that he has given careful and prompt attention to all matters that were brought to his notice; that he has been in Washington attending the sessions of the House of Representatives for a period of eighteen months, and remember that a vote for Mr. Brodbeck is a vote of confidence in President Wilson.

An Appeal to the People of Pennsylvania

It is in the interest of the public—whose chief concern is good service and safety—that the Extra Crew Law now on the Statute books of Pennsylvania and other States be repealed. This law causes a waste of $1,100,000 annually in the employment of unnecessary men on the Pennsylvania System alone.

No one is more concerned than the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in securing maximum safety on its lines. Every train on this railroad has a full crew, and this extra expenditure adds nothing to safety or public convenience. The same money had much better be spent to remove grade crossings, improve tracks, signals, and bridges, and buy steel cars. This extra crew law, which compounds unnecessary expenditures, is one of the factors which menaces the ability of this Company to pay present rates of wages to that great body of employees whose activities are needed.

The Public Service Commission should see to it that all trains are properly manned. Such action would amply protect employees and the public. We appeal to the people in their own interest, we appeal to our employees in their best interest, to ask their representatives in the next Pennsylvania Legislature to repeal the Extra Crew Law.

SAMUEL REA,

President Pennsylvania Railroad Co.

Line of Swiftest Descent.

What is the line of the swiftest descent? To any one not acquainted with the laws of higher mathematics a proposition such as this would appear absurd, the most obvious answer being a straight line. However, it has been proved by mathematicians that the line of swiftest descent is a curve called the cycloid. It is this curve that the eagle unconsciously utilizes in his wonderfully swift swoop to his prey. The analysis of the curve is simply a straight line motion combined with a circular motion. The best illustration showing this is a cartwheel as it rolls along the ground. Any point on the rim of the wheel is describing a cycloid, and no point is at any time describing a circle or going in a straight line. A peculiar thing is deduced from this knowledge, and that is that no point on the rim of a wheel rolling on a surface goes "round the center of the wheel, for the center is describing a straight line, and all the points on the rim are describing cycloids; thus as no circular motion exists, the statement holds.—New York Press.

Tennyson's First Poems.

The wind came sweeping through the garden of an old Lincolnshire rectory one morning in the beginning of last century and blew upon a child five years old, who opened his arms to the blast and let it carry him along, crying as he traveled. "I hear a voice that's calling in the wind." That was Tennyson's first line of poetry. The first poem he ever composed was written upon a slate one Sunday morning at Louth. The subject, set him by his brother Charles, was "Flowers," and little Alfred covered his slate with blank verse after the model of Thomson's "Seasons." His next attempt was an elegy upon his grandmother, who had just died, written at the request of his grandfather. When it was written the old man put 10 shillings into the boy's hand and said: "There: that is the first money you have ever earned by your poetry, and take my word for it, it will be the last."—Westminster Gazette.

Different Doctors.

There are a great many "doctors" who know nothing of medicine. In its technical sense doctor is a university degree, the highest given. It is given in recognition of attainments in many branches of learning, and so there are several kinds of doctors. There is the familiar M. D., doctor of medicine; the LL. D., doctor of laws; the Ph. D., doctor of philosophy; the D. D., doctor of divinity; the J. D., doctor of jurisprudence; the D. D. S., doctor of dental surgery, and many another. So if you hear a man referred to as "doctor" you must find out what he is doctor of before you can determine to which profession he belongs.

Doctor of laws seems to have been the earliest of the doctor's degrees, it having been awarded as early as the twelfth century. Doctors of divinity appeared somewhat later. It was a century before the now familiar M. D. (doctor of medicine) came into use.—American Boy.

Sunstroke on Mountains.

Sunstroke, according to experiments made by Professors Victor Henry and M. L. de la Roche, is due to the French ultra violet rays at the extreme limit of the spectrum. If the spectrum be examined at an altitude of from 3,000 to 4,000 meters it can be seen that the limit of these rays varies little, but that their intensity is greatly increased. At sea level the intensity is comparatively feeble, so one is much more likely to have sunstroke on a high mountain than in a valley.—New York World.

Better Still.

One of the principal owners of a promising gold mine was expatiating on its merits to a capitalist and prospective investor. He described the vein in which the miners were working, showed him specimens of the ore and backed up his statements with the written opinions of experts.

"Well," admitted the capitalist, "it looks as if it might be a good investment. As my old Uncle Hiram would say, it has 'pinks.'"

"Pinks?" exclaimed the owner, carried away perhaps by his over-anxiety. "Why, sir, we're in quartz right now!"

Buried With Dolls.

In the Chinese manner one of the strange sights is a number of life-size dolls which are burned to accompany the corpse as their servants to the next world. They are derivatives of a relic of the time when human beings were thus buried as companions of the deceased.

More Darkness.

"This is the darkest hour that ever came upon a world," said Mr. Harding to his wife.

"Well, Howard," said she, "I don't see how it can be darker than this."

Vegetable Sponges.

Vegetable sponges are used in a great deal by the police class of natives in Ecuador. They assert that they are better in washing clothes and in bathing than the animal sponges.

Athletes of India.

The wrestlers and athletes of India develop great strength by living on milk, a little ghee, and plenty of food made from flour.

Culture.

Culture is familiarity with the best that has been done or thought. It is the soul's warm friendship of the great spirits, living and dead.—Hillis.

Under the Green Light.

Cube sign and Ivory piano keys are inspected under the ghostly greenish rays of mercury vapor lamps with greater speed and accuracy than can be attained in ordinary daylight. Any impurity in sugar manifests itself by changing the white to a shade of yellow. To detect impurities, plates of the crystallized sugar one inch thick are examined by a man looking through them toward a mercury vapor lamp of the kind which is a familiar adjunct of the galleries of postcard photographers. When thus viewed, according to the Electrical World, the yellow impurities stand out clearly in the bluish green light. The color of ivory varies from the outside to the center of the tusk to such an extent that manufacturers sort the pieces into sixteen different shades. Formerly this sorting could be done only in bright daylight, but with the light of the mercury vapor lamp grading can be done without limitation at any hour of the twenty-four.

A Military Secret.

The plebe, sitting on the monument beside the first class man, looked across the river from West Point to Constitution Island. The plebe was inquisitive. He wanted to know what the government intended to use Constitution Island for. The first class man coughed discreetly, blushed and looked around him carefully for eavesdroppers.

"It isn't generally known," he said, "but you're a cadet now. If the signal corps experiments go through successfully they'll use it as an aviary." His voice dropped mysteriously. "For birds, eh?" said the plebe. "Carrier pigeons?"

"Not exactly," answered the knowing one. "They'll be pigeons, as they call 'em—cross between a carrier pigeon and a parrot—to carry verbal messages, you know. Don't tell."

And the plebe didn't.—New York Post.

Almost Insulted.

Amid the lace bargains in one of the larger department stores the other day a shopper engrossed in thought set her little Japanese spaniel on the counter. One of the salesgirls, not seeing the little dog, threw a remnant of reduced lace over him and entirely submerged him. When the woman went to look for her pet he was not to be found, but several shrill yelps, accompanied by an upheaval of the lace, betrayed his presence. He was quickly rescued from his predicament, and the woman, showering kisses upon his moist, upturned nose, said: "Did they cover mamma's precious with cheap fifty-cent lace?"

The salesgirl, who evidently had cultivated diplomacy, assured the dog's mistress that the lace had been reduced from $1 to 50 cents, and the woman took her pet away mollified.—Philadelphia Record.

Ready For Any Sacrifice.

Even when the London Times was sold at a high price its agony column was entertaining. Now that a copy of the journal costs only a penny the column is still more agonizing. Witness this advertisement:

"In order to save his aged parents from distress, gentleman (foreigner) wishes to sell himself for any purpose. Willing to do right away anything. I sincerely desire an offer."

If this cry had been uttered in the old days Satan would have appeared in a pleasing form and with courteous address waited on the gentleman in despair. Only a scribbled signature, only a penful of blood, would have been necessary, and the aged parents would have rolled in luxury. This is a sadly prosaic age.—Boston Herald.

Feasted on Candies.

Russian soldiers, according to the author of "Eat, Drink and Be Merry," esteem tallow candles a great luxury. He facetiously describes how they came across a huge store of them among the French baggage on the retreat from Moscow and summarily snuffed them out of existence. "Never were they consumed in such a style before. The enraptured warriors drew them across their mouths—like a bow across a fiddle—and left only the bare wicks as a proof of how easily their coverings, so necessary for lights, can be readily utilized for fires."

Literary Tragedy.

Not—that was a hard blow to literature yesterday. Ted—What was that? Not—Why, lightning struck a house a little way to a magazine in the city, and it exploded, scattering the first and second series and killing two authors who were at work on the third story.

A Roundabout Reply.

"I don't sell a roundabout handkerchief," said a peddler to a customer.

"What's that?" asked the customer.

"That's a handkerchief with a roundabout hole in it," said the peddler.
